

Open to the Public

BIO: Mutian Zhuang received his B.Sc. in Physics from Jilin University, China, in 2015, followed by a Ph.D. in Physics from Jilin University, China, in 2018, and worked as a research assistant at State Key Laboratory of Superhard Materials, Jilin University. After that, he received his M.S. in Electrical Engineering from Northern Illinois University, USA, in 2021. He is currently an assistant professor in the Electrical and Computer Engineering Department, at Marquette University. His research interests include machine learning, signal processing, and smart sensing algorithms for hyperspectral imaging.

